Dedication of a Hungarian Reformed Protestant Church.

THE LESSONS OF COLUMBUS DAY.

God's Hand in the Discovery and Settlement of America.

TOPICS DISCUSSED BY CITY PASTORS.

The first Hungarian Reformed Protestant Church ever built in the United States was dedicated yesterday on Bates street, near Second avenue. Not a Slav put in an appearance, and if the views expressed by many of the new congregation were meant as given, no members of the Slavonic tribes were wanted there. Pastor Kovacs was very emphatic in his recital of the fact that his congregation was purely Hungarian. Three-fourths of the 300 present were men, the other quarter mostly young girls and children. All the male members are mill

The new edifice is a plain one-story frame building, with a low polished wood ceiling, n few religious pictures on the wall, a square nave filled with chairs allowing only a center aisle, but with a well appointed chancel and place of communion. A Handsome Little Parsonage.

At the back of the church stands the parsonage, practically a portion of the main building. It is neatly furnished and has, besides a kitchen, dining and conference rooms, a rather uniquely fitted parlor and four bedrooms. The whole building cost $6,000. The money was raised by the mem-bers of the Grace Reformed Church, of the

In speaking of the new flock, Rev. Mr. Jurany, of Cleveland, who took part in the services, said that the poor Hungarian did as much in a religious way as could be expected. Yesterday's services were in no way impressive. Only those who had already been baptised and confirmed in the faith were allowed to partake of communion, prayers were especially arranged for the occasion by Mr. Kovaes. The One Hundred and Thirty second Psalm was taken for the text as a whole, and the subject dealt with text as a whole, and the subject dealt with by Rev. Mr. Jurany included the eighth, high and tenth and from the thirteenth to the eighteenth verses. The morning services lasted until noon, the afternoon services until 5 o'clock and the evening services until 10:20 r. x. The little church was crowded all day.

The next Hungarian Protestant institution of the United States will be erected in Cieveland, where a large number of Huns are engaged in tailoring and shoemaking.

GOD'S HAND IN OUR HISTORY.

How the Way Was Opened for the Discov ery of America.

flev. David Mc Allister preached a sermon in the Eighth Street Reformed Presbyterian Church resterday on "God's Hand in the History of America." He began by reviewing the early settlement of the country and inted out wherein it was providential. In the history of the world one civilization has succeeded another, but in most instance lands were preoccupied, and a new social order was introduced. Not so with America. God reserved this country for the last, and it was settled when the right time arrived. For many years it remained a blank, inhabited by savages who had not a bank, inhabited by savages who had not risen even to the dignity of a pastoral people. They were not like nomadic tribes, having a certain degree of intelligence, but they used the country as a great hunting ground through which they roamed at will.

Mr. McAllister next showed that the preparation in Europe for the settlement of America was guided by God. It began with the cruption of the Mohammedans on the people in Constantinople resulted in the distribution of knowledge. Science began to make progress, and men were eager to explore new lands. Thus the fifteenth contury became famous for its voyagers, and it culminated by the discovery of America by Columbus toward its close.

It was providential next that America was not settled immediately after the discovery. The attempts of the Spaniards, Portuguese and French to gain a foothold here resulted in failure. It was not God's intention that they should secure the possession of the country. It remained for the Dutch, the English, the Scandinavians, the Puritans and the Covenanters, the oppressed of Europe, to carry out God's plan with reference to America. These colonists were successful, and they have left their imprint on the nation.

INSPIRATION OF THE BIBLE,

Rev. John Whitehead on the Different Systems of Interpretation Rev. John Whitehead delivered the first of a course of evening lectures on Biblical Interpretation at the New Jerusalem Church, Sandusky and Isabella streets, Allegheny. The lecturer gave an account of the different systems of interpretation. He showed that the merely literal view led to various contradictions and inconsistencies. and to ideas not in agreement with science Dr. Briggs, of Union Theological Seminary showing that the higher criticism deals only with questions relating to text, authorship, with questions relating to text, authorship, dates, etc., of the Bible, but does not deal with the question of inspiration itself, although it denies the in allibility and the verbal inspiration of the word. The doctrinal method of interpreting the word was also spoken of, showing that all denominations explain the word according to their doctrines, but as these doctrines are now widely disbelieved the Bibleitself is brought into discredit in the minds of some, because they have been led to think that it teaches the doctrines.

With these methods of interpretation the iecturer contrasted the doctrines of the New Church as taught by Emanuel Swedenborg, who held that the Scriptures contain an in-ternal sense, which treats of the Lord, heaven, and spiritual subjects, even where the letter scenis to be treating only of trivial natural things. This doctrine Swedenborg claims was revealed to him by the Lord, and claims was revealed to him by the Lord, and was given for the purpose of showing wherein the Divinity of the Word lies, and that it can restore the faith in the Word as a divinie book. This system also gives the true doctrines of the letter, and establishes the truth of verbal inspiration, and the true canon or list of books which are the Word of God.

THE GREATEST NATION.

We Should Honor Columbus for Discover

lug a New World. Rev. S. T. Mitchell, D.D., paster of the Main Street M. E. Church, preached his Columbins sermon from the text, "The lines have fallen to me in pleasant places, yea, I have a goodly heritage." He said: "David, when he rote this psalm, referred to his own country. No less can we apply its teachings to try. No less can we apply its teachings to our own. Columbus, who made this continent known to the world, was born at Genos, lived at Lisbon and died at Valladolid. When 50 years old he was unknown. Now historians write or him, sindends read about him and we all revere his name. Why? Because he discovered a New World. It was a market many world that the property has the content of the content mercenary motive that prompted him to undertake his great task. He may have been a moral man according to the standards of his own time, but would not be a Christian to-day. Ha was not canonized by the church. Notwithstanding this, the country did well to celebrate the discovery of America, and the pastors should direct the thoughts of the people to him.

"Three things are necessary to national prosperity, a good soil, intelligent people and a correct system of religion. We, in Columbia's land, have all of them and should be thankful. We are the most presperous the most intelligent and the most religious nation on earth."

COLUMBIA'S FUTURE.

The World Looking Toward the Country for Higher, Purer Ideals.

Rev. S. B. McCormick, of the Central Pres byterian Church, Allegheny, took for his morning subject yesterday: "Columbia for Christ." The text was from Psalms xxiii., 12: "Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord." The minister said: "The celebration of the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of our country is turning the mind of the people to our country as never before. We hope that the Exposition of next year will demonstrate that we are a great nation in material things, but if we fail to show true types of manhood and womanhood, lofty ideals of character, de-votion to truth and Christ, we will not show that which will demonstrate our claim to that which will demonstrate our claim to supremacy.

"Among the nations of the world men today are demanding purer ideals and reaching higher standards and are not bowing down so much be ore military or commercial power, as before that which is intellectual and spiritual. The history of nations shows a dreary record of rise, splendor, decay and death, but if through it ail there shall come one nation which shall recognize the true one nation which shall recognize the true has so in ational growth and true fountain of untional blessedness, and so enthrone Jehovah as its God, then the record of the past is not in vain. The recognition of Jehovah as our God is essential to this nation's blessedness. America must therefore become the source of true liberty and of spiritual religion."

EVANGELISTS AT THE JAIL Two Men Who Find Work to Do in Pena

Services at the jail yesterday were made exceptionally interesting by the presence of two evangelists, each an odd character in his way. One was C. P. Nim:n, a commercial traveler from Boston, who is known as the "Drummer Evangelist." The other, A. H. Buck, of Toledo, celebrated as the "Crip-pled Evangelist." Mr. Nimm has combined evangelistic work with his calling for 20 years, traveling all over the country and addressing his efforts chiefly to prison inmates. In his address to the jail prisoners yesterday, he related a number of experiences he has had with prison inmates which show that the kind words spoken to them while confined frequently bear good fruit, and are not wasted, as many suppose.

Mr. Buck, the "crippled evangelist," has probably one of the most distorted bodies that any man could have and yet be able to walk on his feet. A crutob and a cane enable him to get along, but very slowly. His great affliction is borne, however, with remarkable lortitude and patience, and his manner is strikingly kind and gentle. When addressing the audience at the jail yesterday his sweet voice attracted the most respectful attention of everyone in the building. In addition to his evengelistic work Mr. Buck is the author of a series of pamphlet songs and poems. phier songs and poems.

Both the evangelists were hearty in their praise of the Allegheny county jail, Mr.

Nimm declaring it was unexcelled either in beauty, security or management anywhere in the country.

HOLDING UP A PASTOR'S HANDS.

on Taken From the Battle Ret the Israelites and Amaleks.

Dr. P. S. Merrill has been transferre to the Pittsburg Conference, and Tarentun charge given him. The stiff formality which existed in the church is already vanishing by socials and teas under the genial leader ship of Dr. Merrill. Sunday morning's ser on was found in Exodus xvii., 12: "By Moses' hands were heavy; and they took a stone and put under him and he sat thereon and Aaron and Hur stayed up his hands, the and Aaron and Hur stayed up his hands, the one on the one side and the other on the other side: and his hands were steady until the going of the sun." Dr. Merrill gave a brief history of the Amaleks and the war between them and the children of Israel. As Moses stood on the mountain to, with the rod of God in his hand, as he "neld up his hand Israel prevailed: and when helet down his hand Amalek prevailed.

The practical lesson brought out was how the minister should hold up his hands, and as Aaron and Hur the congregation should assist him to hold up his hands by prayer, calling on and caring for the sick and the aged, and encouraging one another by complementing their efforts in doing good and to abstain from fault finding.

50,000 PEOPLE DROWNED.

One Million More May Starve to Death Unless Aid Soon Reaches Them. SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23 .- [Special]-Letters from China bring terrible accounts of the loss of life and property caused by the breaking of the banks of the Yellow river which is called "China's Sorrow." It is only three years since the whole busin of the river three years since the whole basin of the river was flooded, and now comes a new flood, fully as disastrous as the other. It is estimated that the flooded district is 150 miles long by 30 miles wide, that over 50,000 people have been drowned and that fully1,000,000 people miles district is flooded from new till next spring.

These figures furnish some idea of the extent of the calamity in which in single villages the whole loss of life at Johnstown is surpassed. The work of strengthening the embankment of the river was poorly done three years ago, and the high water this season swept away the dykes as though they were made of straw. In several districts the water is 15 feet deep, and whole families are perched upon the roofs of their houses. Only the more substantial structures resist the action of the water, the majority of the houses crumbling away and carrying the wretched people to death.

Veteran of the Rebellion.

Objects to Her Going to Country Fairs in an Indian Costume. WILL HOLD ON TO HIS PRIZE MONEY

George V. Payton, a grizzled veteran of the Rebellion, yesterday visited Superintendent Muth to report progress on his search for his truant wife. Payton lives at 86 Robinson street, Allegheny, and is 63 years old. Two years ago he married a pretty woman of 21. Since then he has had considerable trouble. Three months after the marriage Mrs.

Payton left, taking with her $300. After a time she returned, but on August 31 last she left again, and is now, her husband alleges, traveling around the country fairs in the character of an Indian squaw. Payton advertised the departure of his wife and then went to Superintendent of Police Muth for advice. Mr. Muth assured the old man that his wife would return before the snow ommenced to fly, and suggested that he do nothing but await her return.

Payton, in telling his story to the police officials yesterday, said: "L loved that woman as my life, but now my love is turning to hate. I am an old man, and served through the late war under Admiral Porter. I was third assistant engineer when I resigned, and am now in my 63d year. His Young Wife's First Trip.

"Two years ago I married my present wife. She was just 21 years old. Three months after she left me, taking $300 I had saved. After the money was all gone I heard from her, and, as I still loved, I took her back. We lived happily together for a time, and she seemed glad that I had taken her back. On the 31st of August last, when I returned home from work, I found my apartments stripped of everything I possessed and my wife missing. I subsequently learned that she had given away or sold my clothes, leaving me nothing to wear except my working suit. I also heard that a crippled fakir had gone with her, and later learned that she was visting the county fairs dressed as an Indian and assisting him in the sale of patent medicines.

'If I had come across either of them at that time I believe I would have committed murder, for I was crazy. I could neither cat nor sleep for thinking about her. When I laid my case before the Superintendent he advised me to do nothing and I would hear from her before Christmas Muth Proves a Good Prophet

"Recently I received a letter from her asking me to allow her to return. She asked me to send her a ticket to return home. I sent her $5, but she did not come. Last Wednesday she was in town and tried Last weenesday are was in town and tried to borrow money from my friends, but failed. The next day I received a letter from Altoona asking for $10, to which I shall pay no attention. I have notified my landlady not to allow her to go into my rooms if she should come back as I will have nothing further to do with her. The case is now in the hands of my attorney and papers are being prepared for a divorce." Mr. Payton has an excellent record, hav-ing been publicly complimented three times by Admiral Porter for gallant service while in action. He is employed in the shops of the Pittsburg and Western Rail-road in Allegheny. The injuries received by him during the war prevent him from following his avocation, that of a railroad engineer. Mr. Payton says that he has reved word that his claim for prize money has been allowed and there is nearly $2,000 He thinks his wife has heard of this and wants to come back in order to get possession of it and then leave him again.

THE SIGN LANGUAGE IS OLD.

Motions Used by North American Indi Taught in Deaf Mute Schools

It is a fact worth noting that the signs used by the Indians of North America are identical in many instances with those em ploved by the deaf mutes of to-day. A short time ago a friend of a writer in Scribner. who had spent considerable time among the Indians, but who had never talked with a deaf mute before, conversed with some pupils of the New York institution by means of signs which he had learned from the red men. "Where are you going?" and "I am gaing away on horseback" were the same when given by the deaf mutes and by the visitor. Another instance showing the sign language to be a universal one was when the mother of the writer, herself a deaf person, while attending a convention of instructors of the deaf in France, conversed on various topics with a mute friend by means of signs. The French lady had no knowledge of the English language, while the American knew hardly a word of simple intercommunication of deaf-mutes, general knowledge may be rapidly instilled hearing. They improve remarkably fast; but this system is not without its draw-backs, for if the sign language is depended upon too greatly, the pupil does not make that progress in the English language that s essential to his communication hearing and speaking people, nor for his improvement by the reading of both text

TAKING TIPS FROM BOSTON. York City Is an Adept Pupil in th Noble Art of Gastronomy.

New York Sun. 1

Two famous Boston dishes have made their way to New York. Broiled live lobster has been here for some time, and scrod has just arrived in the grill room of one club. Both are the invention of a noted Bohemian grill room in Boston, and have found their way to only two or three other eating places in that city. When broiled live lobster was first served in the Boston chophouse and announced on the bill of fare the Society for the Prevention warn the proprietor against what appeared upon its face to be a cruel and inhuman practice. The host received the agent of the society with smiling suavity, and at once conducted him to the kitchen. "I wish ou to prepare a broiled live lobster,' the host to the cook, without a word to th on a chopping block, with one blow of a cleaver split him in twain, and two seconds later had the scarce dead creature sizzling over the charcoal. The agent went off, after admitting that there was nothing in the treatment of the lobster to call for the interposition of his society.

The scrod, which followed the broiled live lobster over from Boston, is a young cod, weighing from 2½ to 5 pounds. When a Bostonian, who acts as house committee man in a New York club, first tried to find scrod in this market, he was told that none could be obtained unless he would take a certain quantity per day, when it would be specially imported from Boston. He made a somewhat different arrangement, however, and the delicacy is served in at least one club grill room. The scrod at its best should weigh four or five pounds, at which weight four portions may be made of one scrod. When thoroughly broiled, such a scrod is rich, flaky and delicious.
